

Foundation Governor

Tom Doodson

I have been a foundation governor at Brent Knoll since March 2016 and have recently been re-elected as a Trust Governor. I am currently a Programme Manager at the Institute of Physics helping support physicists around the world make a positive difference to the world we live in but previous to this I was the Head of School Relationships at Wide Horizon's working with over 400 schools (including Brent Knoll) helping over 45,000 young people a year get access to adventure as part of their education and development. My interests lie helping children and young people as displayed in my career but specifically to Brent Knoll my focus is on helping the school gain a national reputation for excellence in its teaching and learning whilst also helping the school achieve the Ofsted grading of excellence.
